1. Experimental Learning

Teachers make use of different teaching learning methods in classrooms, laboratories and library. Different methods are used for different subjects drawing on their course content and requirements of students. Experiential learning method is used in Environment science and commerce courses. Visuals, objects and teaching aids are used to keep real life experiences of the concepts to students.

Participative learning method is used across all faculties in the college. Certain activities and exercises are conducted in classrooms and students are encouraged to participate in them. The activities like group discussion, classroom seminars, presentations, role playing, and quizzes are organized for students so that their participation increases and confidence is built.

Teachers take special efforts on hesitant and shy students and encourage them to participate in collective activity like group discussion through such participative learning methods. Students learn to relate with their peers and cultivate a sense of social responsibility. Teachers in the College make use of ICT in their teaching-learning process. They use Projectors, PCs, Laptops, Videos, Slides in their classroom teaching. The tools are used in the classrooms that are specially equipped with on screen presentations. Teachers use Computer Laboratories to give demos and practical.
